

Monitoring is difficult. No trapping methods are available at the moment. Only inspection of potato fields for haulm damage and presence of adult beetles and inspection of tubers for the long sinuous corky lesions and small holes is at the moment available.

